

HAVE YOU HEARD?

Sports Illustrated Withholds “Swimsuit Issue” from Libraries!

There is lots of talk about Time Inc. withholding the 2007 Swimsuit Issue from libraries. Browse through some of the discussions concerning this decision.

Check out some of the newspaper articles from around the United States by searching the libraries' database, Lexis-Nexis!

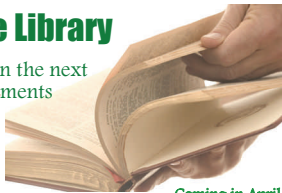

Available online through Lexis-Nexis: Aspan, Maria. “The Swimsuits Were Skimpy, But the Magazine Was Invisible” New York Times 12 March, 2007:C1.

PHOTO: CLIFF WATTS—SPORTS ILLUSTRATED/AP

Cram 4 the Exam @ the Library

Details in the next
InSTALLments
Issue!

Coming in April

ProQuest: Dissertations and Theses

Provided by the UCF Libraries

Looking for dissertations or theses? Check out the libraries' electronic database ProQuest:Dissertations and Theses: Full-text, an index to U.S. dissertations from accredited universities. From 1980 forward, citations include a 350-word abstract. Citations for master's theses from 1988 forward include 150-word abstracts.

A FREE Download is available for any Dissertation published since 1996, as well as many from earlier years! Plus, a preview of the first 24 pages is available from your desktop. You can find this database alphabetically on the Libraries' Home Page. Remember to login with your library card number to access this database from off-campus.

UCF Dissertations and Theses can also be located by searching the UCF Library Catalog (using the keyword “dissertations, academic”).

➡ FINALS WEEK is just around the corner – April 24th-April 30th Don't forget these great library resources and services!

- Laptops can be checked out on the 3rd floor!
- Group Study Rooms are available!
- There are Computers on EVERY floor!
- The library stays open later during Finals Week!
- And...don't forget to Ask A Librarian for assistance!

